

REALITY MILLIONAIRE

PROVEN TIPS TO RETIRE RICH

How would you like to play the latest and greatest reality game? Would you sign up if I told you the payout was one million dollars? How about if the only competition you faced was yourself? You don't have to live out in the wilderness for 30 days. No hunting for your own food. You don't need to do anything life threatening, or heaven forbid, eat something that would make a cockroach blanch. There's no chance that you might not receive the coveted rose, and you're guaranteed to win if you follow the rules.

What if I told you there were just nine rounds? And that winning these nine rounds was something anybody could do with minimal effort and only a few small commitments? What if you knew that even "cheating" a time or two would not disqualify you, and that all the factors of the game are largely under your control? Would you want to play?

My guess is that you would jump at the chance to play this game and take home a million bucks. Who wouldn't? Imagine the freedom that $1,000,000 would give you. What an exciting challenge this game must be! What a rush it would be to win!

What if I told you that this game has been around since the beginning of time? And that everyone in the world plays this game on a daily basis? It's an exciting game for some, and for others it is the bane of their existence. Most people dream of winning the game, yet very few are actually prepared to play.

What if I told you, you were already playing the game, and that you are probably losing?

My name is Mike Peterson and 15 years ago, I was thousands of dollars in debt. I'd made some bad decisions and lost my life's savings on a start-up I'd created with some of my friends. Every credit card was maxed, I had zero assets, and when I went to the bank to get a loan to start a new business, they told me my income was too low for my debt.

"But I need the money to get out of debt," I said.

"That's not our problem," they said.

Sound familiar? We spend years and thousands of dollars in school learning about math, English, history and science. We learn trades. We get out in the world and we make money. But no one ever taught us how to manage that money. Did we all miss the class on financial freedom?

For many of us, financial management skills aren't passed down from our parents or from our teachers. Why? Truth is, many of them don't know how to manage their money either. How are any of us supposed to get rich if none of us knows how to get from financial A to Z? We can't. And the fact is, getting from financial A to Z is so easy that anyone with any level of education can do it. It doesn't take a Master's in Accounting, and you don't have to be an investment genius.

REALITY MILLIONAIRE

Despite the fact that anyone can become a millionaire, the vast majority of Americans never stop to learn the simple rules of financial management that will lead them there. As a co-founder of a nonprofit consumer credit counseling organization, I saw people every day that would shy away from doing their finances. Most of them will work hard 40 hours a week to make money, but won't spend one hour of that week managing it. It's my belief that they don't really understand how much of a difference it can make in their lives. I think most people really don't understand that they could come out of the game a real-life Reality Millionaire. If they did, wouldn't everybody be doing it?

I know you're skeptical, but it's true: Everyone (and I mean everyone) can be a Reality Millionaire. How do I know? I've been there firsthand, and today, 15 years from being thousands of dollars in debt, I have over one million dollars in assets, investments and cash. My house and cars are paid off. My debt is paid off. My credit card balances are zero.

Did I win in Vegas? No. Do I make seven figures a year? Not a chance. I learned how to play the game. I learned how to play Reality Millionaire, work with the numbers I had, and come out a winner. These steps have worked so well for me that I have spent the last seven years teaching them to others. There is no reason why everyone can't have enough for retirement or for their life's dreams.

You can do it too. In a world where personal debt is at its highest levels, where a staggering percent of divorce is caused by money troubles, and where the average American spends $1.22 for every $1.00 that he makes, there is a way out of the downward financial spiral.

In fact, I have a promise for you: I promise you that whatever your finances look like now, you can play Reality Millionaire and win. I promise you that anyone on any income can get out of debt and enjoy new levels of financial freedom by playing just nine rounds of this life-changing game. I promise you that you can do this without giving up all your worldly pleasures. You can do it using money you currently have—money that exists in your current finances that you don't even know you have.

You might even find that it's fun. After all, who doesn't like to win the game?

But before you start to play, you have to make a simple commitment. You have to make a small promise to yourself. You have to understand that only you can take control of your finances—that although outside events can happen (heaven knows, bad luck happens to everyone), you can't blame outside sources for your financial troubles

THE COMMITMENT

I will play Reality Millionaire for at least twelve months, and during these months, I will do my best to follow the rules of Reality Millionaire. I understand that only I have the power to change my financial situation, and I am ready to commit to making a change in my life to do so. I understand that, as in any game, there may be setbacks and roadblocks, but I will overcome these and continue playing. I do this because I believe it will make me a happier, more well rounded person and more importantly because . . .
